GALLA DAY AT WHITEVILLE.—Yesterday one week ago, the little village of Whiteville wilve miles west of this place, was the scene f a very pleasant gathering of the goodly people who inhabit that portion of our county, It was the occasion of the closing exercises of the male and female school located there, and over which Mr. W. E. Price and Mr. G. W. Hardin have presided so satisfactorially attend. to all concerned. When we arrived at the academy we found the building densely crowded with ladies and gentlemen, many of whom, we noticed, were citizens of our town. The scholars acquitted themselves handsomely, indeed, many of the classes that we heard examined in the various primary departments, exhibited a wonderful familiarity with their studies, and especially was this the case with the class in geography. At noon the exercises were suspended, and all present were invited to dine off the sumptuous repast which had been prepared. Dinner school-room was filled to its utmost capacity. During the afternoon, by appointment, our fellow-townsman, Maj. J. B. Dennis, appeared upon the stand, and after being introduced latest styles to the audience, by the principal of the school, delivered a chaste and well-timed address. His remarks were listened to with marked attention, and elicited a hearty encore from the vast assembly. As soon as the Major had vacated the stand, the exercises were again resumed, the scholars, as before, answering all questions promptly. In there, as also was Prof. Millen, of Somer- phis, Tenn. ville. Before closing this brief mention of
